(07/15/09)

OVER THREE YEARS OF SUPPORTING OUR K-9 TROOPS!

Hello everyone! We are currently supporting six (6) kennels and thirty-eight (38) deployed Air Force, Army, and Navy teams as of July 15, 2009. July 2009 brings us to three years and eleven months of operation for our “Old Dawgs & Pups and K-9 Supply” program. Once again, I’d just like to say thank you to all of you that have supported our awesome programs and especially our troops and their canine partners deployed down range. Our program now supports Air Force, Army, and Navy K-9 teams – it just keeps getting better!

Area of Operation Status - K-9 Teams Arriving in the AOR

We are currently supporting troops at FOB Warrior, Camp Cropper, Joint Base Balad, and FOB Delta, Iraq; Al Udeid Air Base, Qatar, and Bagram, Afghanistan. We have three (3) new Pups to introduce this month. The big story is that the rotation cycle has begun and the planes are going to be filling up with troops coming and going to the AOR.

Joint Base Balad, Iraq: TSgt Mark Ochoa, Kennel Master, from the 319th SFS, Grand Fork AFB, ND. He’s just got his e-mail hooked up today! He told us that Joe told him all about us!

Bagram, Afghanistan: SSgt Jorge Davila & MWD Emy from the 36th SFS, Anderson AFB, Guam. He is support by Karl Niemeyer (NKP).

FOB Warrior, Iraq: TSgt Paul Gambrell & TSgt Jessica Sonnier have taken over as Kennel Master and Trainer at FOB Warrior.

Heading Stateside: TSgt Joe Throgmorton, TSgt Chris Wilson, TSgt Chris Guild, SSgt Chad Ditch, SSgt Jeff Mastin, SSgt “Dozer” Mendoza, SSgt Angelo Reategui, SSgt Joshua Germann, SSgt Gary Laub, and SrA Ted Carlson, are heading home, or they should be stateside, by the time you read this edition. Thanks guys you did a GREAT JOB and we’re very proud of all of you!

Profiles and Photographs of members of Old Dawgs & Pups

Joint Base Balad – New Recovery Program

AFTH ‘unleashes’ new recovery program from patients

by Staff Sgt. Dilia Ayala - 332nd AEW Public Affairs

5/27/2009 - JOINT BASE BALAD, Iraq -- Trained in explosives detection, narcotics detection and more, military working dogs here are now assisting in a different type of fight: the fight to rehabilitate patients at the Air Force Theater Hospital. Members of the AFTH medical staff here held the first session of the K-9 Visitation Program, May 15, a program that works to further patient recovery after injury or illness through animal-assisted therapy. The "pet project" of Staff Sgt. Janice Shipman, 332nd Expeditionary Medical Group intensive care unit aerospace medical technician, the program brings members of the 332nd Expeditionary Security Forces Group's K-9 unit and the medical staff together with one goal in mind: patient recovery. "We are working together to make (the patients) feel good about themselves and about healing," said Sergeant Shipman, who is deployed here from Travis Air Force Base, California.

"From my experience, with their injuries, (patients) focus on that so much that just being able to have a distraction even for a little bit helps them heal," continued the Phoenix City, Alabama, native. "Seeing brings us good memories, touching brings up good memories as well. If (patients) feel good about themselves and their environment, they can say, 'hey, I'm included with this' and they are not just thinking, 'I'm a patient in a bed.' It's therapeutic." An AFTH patient, Army Staff Sgt. Vannell Baerrien said his experience with the K-9s has made a difference in his healing process. "Being here with the dog has helped me relax a lot more," he said. "It has helped me to be able to take a deep breath and exhale so to speak. This has been a wonderful and welcomed event."

Army Sgt. Marc Dowd, also a wounded warrior at the AFTH, shared common feelings regarding the K-9 Visitation Program: "(The program) gave me a chance to get out. Being able to get out here, especially with a working dog, is a great environment to be in. It helped me out. It made me forget about the pain just to have the dog around. It was really nice."

The use of animals for therapeutic purposes goes as far back as 1699 when the English philosopher John Locke suggested the importance of children interacting with animals. The U.S. military began pushing for the use of therapy dogs in 1919 after success with World War I Soldiers. Today, therapy dogs fall under the category of animal assisted therapy. While MWDs here are not specifically trained as therapy dogs, the program here serves to augment their given military duties as explosives-detection and narcotic s-detection dogs, in addition to serving as therapy to wounded service members.

Overall, the program gives K-9 handlers a great chance to train their dogs to work closely with others besides the handlers, said Tech. Sgt. Joseph Throgmorton, 332nd ESFG kennel-master. "These are military working dogs; when they are on duty on-base, we generally do not let people pet them," said Sergeant Throgmorton, who is deployed here from Hill AFB, Utah. "However, we have a unique mission here. Our dogs are working with non-K-9 handlers in close quarters of vehicles off-base and need to become comfortable around others."

The program has done just that for Staff Sgt. Kristen Smith, 332nd ESFG K-9 handler, and her explosives detection MWD, Cezar. "Whenever you're training the dog around Coalition forces, you want to make sure he's not aggressing on people you don't want him to aggress on," Sergeant Smith said. "This (program) furthers that training because when we are riding in HMMWVs and we are out patrolling, we try to train them (MWD) on how they are going to act around Coalition forces so they're only going to do (aggress someone) whenever he (MWD) feels threatened, his handler is threatened or when given the actual command."

Sergeant Smith and Cezar were one of two K-9 teams to participate in the initial session of the program. The other was Staff Sgt. Charles Busha, and his narcotics detector dog, Golf, deployed here from Fairchild AFB, Wash., and a native of Lake Jackson, Texas.

Scheduled to be held at the AFTH twice a month at a minimum depending on the K-9 unit's operations tempo, the visitation program will be available to other 332nd ESFG K-9 handlers and their MWDs. Sergeant Smith said she was happy to have participated in the first session and hopes to continue participating. "If the patients want to see Cezar, I will bring him over," she said, who is deployed here from McGuire AFB, N.J. "I think this is a really good program. It furthers our training and helps the patients. Furthermore, the native of Johnstown, Pa., said participating in this program has helped her see the fruits of their training. "(Being a part of this program) boosted my confidence that the training we are doing is paying off," she said. "Cezar is already good around people, but any additional training is always good for the dog.

Kristen Smith, 332nd Expeditionary Security Forces Group K-9 handler, and her explosives-detection military working dog, Cezar, put on a demonstration for patients at the Air Force Theater Hospital here May 15 as part of the newly created K-9 Visitation Program. The program works to further patient recovery after injury or illness through animal-assisted therapy. RIGHT - JOINT BASE BALAD, Iraq — Staff Sgt. Kristen Smith, 332nd Expeditionary Security Forces Group K-9 handler, gives verbal positive reinforcement to her explosives-detection military working dog, Cezar, for his conduct during his participation in the K-9 Visitation Program at the Air Force Theater Hospital here May 15. The newly created program allows AFTH patients to interact with K-9s to help further their recovery after injury or illness as a form of animal-assisted therapy. The program also furthers the MWD's training, as they work in close proximity with Coalition forces here during their day-to-day mission. Sergeant Smith and Cezar are deployed here from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and the sergeant is a native of Johnstown, Pa. (U.S. Air Force photo/Staff Sgt. Dilia Ayala) SSgt Kristen Smith is supported by Jim Stastny (Korat).

"(Cezar) is an explosives detection dog; we're always conducting training to make sure he recognizes all odors so when you're out patrolling, he can pick up an odor from far away and he'll respond to it to let you know and to let fellow Soldiers know that there's something out there," she added. "They are all well-trained animals and as long as their handler's around and they ask the handler's permission, they are approachable and their purpose can be that of a therapy dog as well."

In addition to helping patients in their recovery process and the K-9s in their training, Sergeant Shipman said she hopes the program will serve yet another purpose: educate both the medical staff and the security forces members about each other's missions. Following patient interaction with the K-9s, the medical staff is able to view a K-9 demonstration, showcasing some of their (MWD) daily training.

"I hope this will give people a new understanding about what the K-9 unit does and help in bringing us together," she said. "The K-9 unit will see what we do as a medical staff, and us as a medical staff will see what they do. They save lives just like we do. We will work together with the common goal to heal our patients."

Right – TSgt Joe Throgmorton makes a last minute adjustment to that “sweet looking weapon”. That Leatherman tool is always handy. Joe is supported by Mike Diercks (Korat). Sure looks like something we used back in the 70's – just a supped up version – many it was a great weapon.

It is with great pleasure that the Thailand Dog Handlers announce a new partnership with “Helping Udders” to provide cooling vest for our deployed Airmen, Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines down range!

Through the generosity of “Helping Udders” we have shipped the first ten (10) cooling vests and extra cooling packs to our troops at FOB Delta, Iraq. As we speak, Mikel Miller is packing up the vests that will be on their way to Iraq for our troops at FOB Delta and Joint Base Balad!

These vests have been purchased and shipped through the generous donations to Helping Udders. To date Helping Udders has shipped 293 to the AOR – way to go Mikel & Helping Udders!

Forty-eight hours ago we made contact with Helping Udders concerning a request for information on purchasing cooling vests for our handlers in Southwest Asia. We told them about our Old Dawgs & Pups program and they asked a few questions, made a few suggestions, and then they decided to partner with us and then they decided on a great plan of action – lets work together on this program. Thanks also go out to Mike Regan (NKP) for locating and providing the information on Helping Udders.

THEN THEY DONATED TEN (10) COOLING VESTS & EXTRA COOLING PACKS TO OUR OD&P PROGRAM! CHECK THEIR WEBSITE: <http://www.helpingudders.com/> AND <http://www.helpingudders.com/MWD.htm> - They sell “cool dog stuff” – Check them out!

We canvassed our Kennel Masters and handlers and found that FOBs had the most pressing needs for the vests. We called them back and – POOOF – the vest appeared on the shipping dock enroute to Iraq! The vest and extra cooling packs are $228.00 each. What a great start to this program – talk about hitting the ground running! Stay tuned for more details on this one!

The total value of the donation is $2,280.00.

TSgt O'Dell just advised us that the stainless steel water buckets, bowls (Pet Edge), and the Syntek Hidden sleeve (Ray Allen) are now on the ground at Bagram. Oh, almost forgot – they also maintained patrols and security at the same time! We'd like to again thank the American Legion, Hurst-Eules-Bedford Post 379, Texas, for their financial support to help get this kennel up and running so quickly! Thank you Texas veterans.

Bagram's New K-9 Compound – Camp Kujo

Hopefully we will be getting replaced pretty quickly. 10 months is long enough. I am the Kennel Master here working with 5 Marine teams and 1 Navy team. They are a good group of guys. They stay motivated and continue to bring in some good finds. This is one of the most recent photos I have of me and MWD Anty”.

Leatherman Donation

I'm proud to report that it was my duty to once again spend an hour in a comfortable coffee shop with the incredibly pleasant and friendly Juli from Leatherman (sometimes I just can't believe what I get to do as your representative). Of course, at the end of our extremely pleasant chat, she once again awarded us with a donation of Leatherman's amazingly useful products. This time we were gifted with some more of the rugged and reliable Surge multi-tools (laser-engraved with "Thailand K-9" of course), some of those tiny and incredibly powerful S3 Serac LED flashlights, and some of the very simple and stout folding knives – this batch is just like the engraved ones we sell in the VSPA BX Store).

I am constantly amazed and thankful for the support that the Leatherman company gives us for our troops in harm's way. The total of their donation through us is growing to really astonishing levels, and we're not the only group to receive their generosity. Leatherman doesn't JUST make outstanding stuff, they also support America's Armed Forces personnel down range where it's NEEDED. Please do what you can to support the company, and if you have any messages of thanks to pass on to them, let me know and I'll do the honors. With this donation, the Leatherman Company has donated 245 pieces of equipment valued at $27,262.00. Welcome Home! Phil Carroll

Air Force Security Forces Association – Billie Renfro Chapter Dallas – Fort Worth, Texas Donation

Mike Regan (NKP 1971-72) is out fundraising for us again! Mike attended a meeting of the Air Force Security Force Association – Billie Renfro Chapter, Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas, and gave a presentation on Old Dawgs & Pups. When he finished his presentation, followed by a question and answer period – he left the meeting with $517.00 in his hands. We have GOT to keep Mike going to these meetings! This meeting alone funded the needs of FOB Delta, Iraq. We purchased and shipped 10 (each) stainless steel food pans, Kyjen portable food & water containers and PSI water holes to be used by the troops outside the wire. Supplies were purchased from Dressler's Dog Supply and thanks Jennifer Reynolds for the great pricing and service!
